Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Friday 26 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Slight frost overnight. Sunny spells Saturday. Mainly dry.

This Evening and Tonight:
It will be dry, with largely clear skies this evening and overnight, and light winds. Some isolated mist of fog patches may form. A widespread slight frost will develop. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Saturday:
After a chilly, misty start, with an early frost, it will be a dry and often sunny day. A frost will return overnight under clear skies, becoming foggy near coasts. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Rather cloudy at times, especially along the coast with patchy mist and fog. Some sunny intervals are likely, more especially inland. Local overnight frosts are possible.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.